

Week 1 research

My favorite thing that I learned this week was learning to use VS code and GitHub. I had a very difficult couple hours trying to figure out how to use it and once I did, it was an incredible feeling of accomplishment. GitHub is a tool usually used by developers to work closely with a team to enhance communication. Its also a great tool for backing up code that you have created.